YOUR SEX URGE . . .

By DAVID HUNTLY

VERY FEW people give much thought to the human sex urge beyond (a) acknowledging the possession of it; (b) wishing they had a stronger sex urge; (c) condemning it as a sin and an instrument of the devil.

Overlooked completely is the reason for sex; the natural law requiring the existence of the sex urge.

In humans, in animals, and even in plant-life, there is a powerful, unceasing drive towards improvement—a betterment of each succeeding generation over the one past.

The only exceptions to this rule are a few of the lowest forms of life. These are, significantly, without sex.

Nature's blueprint for improving her creatures and plants is a system of averaging out and distributing family faults and virtues in descendants. This system is simply a division of the sexes.

Without a division of the sexes all plant and animal life would spring from a single ancestry; the offspring would not be able to improve upon the parent since it would have to be like the parent with the same diseases and hereditary faults.

How do we know this to be true?—experience, observation, and experimentation. Animal breeders have proven that stock can be improved by mixing the strains, retaining the desirable features of several breeds to produce a new line. Horticulturists cross-pollinate plants and trees to improve the flavor and quality of the fruits and grains we eat.

Records of man's various civilizations leave no doubt of the value of blending two family lines of inheritance, possibly only by having the male and the female sexes. Isolated groups who interbreed, weaken and die out; strong family lines are built from "new blood."

It is plain that sex is a natural, normal, and absolutely necessary function of the human race.

The mere existence of sex in the biological sense is not enough, in and by itself. The body must be nourished, for example, and to partly meet this need, nature has provided it with a stomach; but without the sensation of hunger, man would never know when to feed himself. In a similar fashion man's ability to procreate is brought to his attention by hunger of a sexual nature—the sex urge.

Involved with the sex urge are two powerful forces—one physical, the other mental.

Biologically, the male is capable of procreation (fertilizing the female) long before he reaches mental and emotional maturity.

EXPLAINED

In a strict sense, the sex urge is present from birth. However, we are now concerned only with sex desire as it is manifested at puberty, at which time it becomes directed towards the opposite sex.

All the young bodybuilders who read TM regularly know that certain physical changes occur in the male organism at puberty. The pituitary—called the “master gland”—stimulates the testicles to action. They begin to produce spermatozoa, which make possible the fertilization of the female, and testosterone, the male hormone which influences the masculine growth and provides you with the aggressive male attitude typical of the male.

Sexual attitude is mental. Nature, in designing the human body to sustain and perpetuate itself, has made pleasurable those acts necessary to life and the continuance of life.

A boy likes to be with a girl. This is normal. Nature wants the two sexes to be together and insures their attraction to each other through the medium of the sex urge. In animals this is instinctive. In the human it is both instinctive and selective. Not all males are drawn to all females, and vice versa. Sexual response, which is a part of the sex urge, differs widely with the individual.

The exact mechanism of sexual response has never been definately established. It is known that every part of the body, in varying degrees, is capable of producing some form of sexual excitation. From this it is deduced that the nervous system is closely related to, and works with the sex urge.

Nerve terminals, or nerve endings near the surface of the skin, are known as receptors. They are the organs of excitability. When touched, or in any way excited to function, they communicate sex feelings to the sexual centers—the organs of copulation. Dr. Kinsey reported from his investigations that “...there is no part of the human body which is not sufficiently sensitive to effect erotic arousal and even orgasm for at least some individuals in the population.”

Whereas the entire surface of the body may be subject to sexual stimulation, certain areas have a greater sensibility than others. These are called the “erogeneous zones”. The penis, for one, is richly endowed with nerve endings that have an almost instantaneous reaction to friction or touch.

BODYBUILDING helps keep Rick Sack in cracker-jack condition for boxing, football and track, his favorite sports. He is 19, 5' 10" and weighs 168 lbs. These photos of Rick are by BRUCE.

THERE IS NO OTHER WAY—

REMEMBER the story of Aladdin and his magic lamp? By giving the lamp just a few brisk rubs, a man could wish for and get anything he desired. Naturally, this is only fantasy but it's surprising to find how many fellows actually want to get a powerful, muscular body by some magic, effortless means.

It would be fine if all you had to do is wish for a muscle-packed body, but this is a realistic world and you must learn to face facts. There is no other way to develop the kind of body you want, except by exerting some physical effort on your part—through progressive barbell exercises. But you can make the task a lot easier by getting the right equipment and following the right system of training.

The best and most effective exercise outfit you can get is TM's new SILVER JUBILEE Barbell set. It is absolutely the finest weight training outfit you will ever see. With it you get free bodybuilding consultation, by mail—a feature that can be worth the price of the set alone to you! It can save you weeks, months or even years of unnecessary effort in building a shapely, "Mr. America" physique.

After your set has arrived and you've started training, there are bound to be questions or problems popping into your mind about barbell exercise that you won't know how to cope with. This is true of any set or course you buy. But, unlike others, who ignore you after you've sent them your money, TM bends over backwards to answer your every question and in helping you to solve bodybuilding and health problems. You get help every step of the way in your training program.

There is no time limit on this service, either. You can send in questions, months or even years after you've purchased a SILVER JUBILEE set. There is also no limit on the number of questions you can send in—you ask as many as you want, all will be answered.

There are other big free offers that you get with each SILVER JUBILEE set, too; courses, charts, etc. They total up to $7.50 of extra value for you at no extra cost! Turn to page 42 and read all the details. You'll be glad you did.

FOR "SUPER-CHARGED" WORKOUTS

By JOE GENOVESE
TM Editor

Ask VINCE ZAPPI and he'll tell you that varying the manner in which you perform exercises can really speed results. Photo by BOB ANTHONY.

DOES VARIETY IN YOUR TRAINING ROUTINE AFFECT BODYBUILDING RESULTS? YOU BET IT DOES! IF YOUR WORKOUTS SEEM TO BE GETTING DULL, TURN THE PAGE AND LEARN HOW TO PUT "SPARK" IN YOUR EXERCISE SESSIONS . . .

VARIETY for "Super-Charged" muscles . . .

To keep your interest in bodybuilding at "fever pitch", combine steel cables in your barbell workouts. Training with TM's HOME GYM cables will give your muscles a "lift". They work your muscles from an entirely different angle and put the "finishing touches" to a barbell-trained physique. You can have many hours of fun holding "cable-pulling" contests with your friends, just like the old time strongmen used to do. See how many strands you can stretch to full arm's length in the Chest Pull exercise demonstrated below by Henry Archambault. There's no limit to the amount of fun you can have with TM's steel cables. Try them.

hind your back, as shown in Photo A. Now, stretch them out to each side of you, as in Photo B. Builds a mighty back.

TWO ARM PRESSOUT: Bring cables be-

Doing the same set of Barbell exercises in the same manner and in the same order, workout after workout, for months on end, is the surest way to lose interest and hold back results. Change your routine every 2 or 3 months. Try some new movements or variations of those you've been doing. If you've been using old-fashioned barbell outfits and courses, you can revitalize your interest by ordering one of TM's new SILVER JUBILEE barbell sets. It will stimulate your enthusiasm for bodybuilding as nothing else will. See Page 42 for details.

SEATED CALF RAISE: Hold barbell on lap and place toes on two barbell plates, as in Photo 1. Now raise up on toes as high as you can.

TRICEPS CRAMPER: Hold barbell behind you, with a reverse grip, as in Photo 2. Now, keep arms straight and push weight up as high as you can.

SEATED REVERSE DUMBBELL CURL: With elbow on lap, hold dumbbell as in Photo 3. Now, curl it as in regular curl.

SPREAD EAGLE DIPS: Grip two dumbbells in a floor dip position. Dumbbells are parallel to your body. Now, roll them out a few inches to each side of you, as in Photo 4. Increase the distance as you get stronger.

Photos A and B, of Steve Wengryn are by OLYMPIA. Photos A and B, of Vince Zappi are by BOB ANTHONY.

SUMMER TRAINING CLINIC

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
ON HOW TO TRAIN
AND HOW TO EAT
DURING THE
WARM MONTHS AHEAD

QUESTION: I've heard that barbell training during the warm summer months is harmful. Is this true?

ANSWER: No, not at all. As a matter of fact, it is during the warm months that many fellows make their best gains. The warm temperatures stimulate muscle and tissue growth. They also prevent muscular soreness and strains, which can happen during the colder months. Don't train to the point of exhaustion, though. Do just enough so that you feel comfortably tired after a workout and not "washed-out".

QUESTION: How about diet?

What foods should I eat and which ones should I avoid?

ANSWER: Stay away, as much as possible from rich, starchy and refined foods. These include: cake, pies, pastries, candy, fried foods, etc. They only serve to clog the system and interfere with the proper functioning of your "body regulators". Fresh fruits, green, leafy and yellow vegetables, both cooked and raw, lean meats, fish—all are ideal warm weather foods.

When thirsty, drink plenty of unsweetened fruit juices or lemonade made with honey. However, during warm weather you may have a tendency to "skimp" on meals, thus neglecting to get your share of the vital nutrients you need to maintain your health and keep you in top muscular shape. You can guard against this by taking concentrated food supplements, such as TM'S EXTRA STRENGTH VITAMINS, and MINERALS, SUPER PROTEIN and WHEAT GERM OIL CAPSULES. They are the world's finest supplements and are sold on a money-back-no-questions-asked guarantee. TM's supplements are made according to the highest U.S. Government standards of purity and potency. You won't ever regret taking them.

QUESTION: I'm very light-skinned and therefore burn easily in the sun. I've tried everything to get a tan but without success—all I do is get red as a lobster and all the discomforts that go with it. I've just about given up hope—can you suggest anything?

ANSWER: You definitely need to get yourself a good suntan lotion, one that will filter out the rays of the sun and prevent you from "frying". Now, there are many brands of suntan lotion on the market but a great number of them are ineffective, especially to light-skinned individuals like yourself. Don't give up hope though, because TM'S SUNTAN LOTION is just the thing you need to protect your skin and give you the tan you want so much. It took years of research to develop TM'S SUNTAN LOTION into its soothing, sun-proof formula.

It is greaseless, "invisible" and goes to work for you, immediately so that it isn't long before you have a rich, golden tan. For years now, bodybuilders all over the world have learned to depend on TM'S SUNTAN LOTION for their vacation fun. Order a few bottles today and try it for yourself. It'll please you—and your skin.

QUESTION: I plan to do a lot of swimming, skin diving and other summer sports, but I also want to keep up with my SILVER JUBILEE barbell training. Do you think I'll be doing too much?

ANSWER: If summer sports are going to take up a great deal of your time and energy, then it's best to cut down on your barbell training. Instead of three times a week, train just once or twice a week. Also do less reps and sets on each exercise. Use lighter poundages, too. Otherwise, you will be using energy faster than your body can safely generate it and you risk the possibility of becoming run down. You don't have to give up your SILVER JUBILEE barbell training—just modify it a bit. If you find, at times that you are over doing it, with all your activities, a few TM'S ENERGY-PLUS tablets will help prevent over exhaustion. They give you "trigger-quick" energy because they are made with dextrose, the fastest energy producer known to man. They also contain many other ingredients that help give lasting energy. They taste like candy, too. Keep a generous supply on hand.

More Summer training hints in next month's issue—be sure to look for it.

CAN DEVELOP STRONG POWERFUL MUSCLES

TM SUPER PROTEIN

When you exercise, your tissues are constantly breaking down. Because your muscles are almost entirely made up of protein, you must take in enough protein to replace the broken-down tissues—an extra plus to build up more than you tear down.

Through intensive research, we have developed TM Super Protein tablets, composed of 67% protein. This amazing supplement added to your regular diet can help build your body more quickly because it supplies all the essential amino acids . . . called the building blocks of the body . . . that are vital for the repair of broken down tissues.

TM supplies 67% protein in pleasant-tasting, easy-to-take tablets which you can carry with you at all times. TM Super Protein is aminized, which means that it is pre-digested, so that it goes to work in your body faster to build solid firm tissue.

TM Super Protein not only supplies more calories, but it actually provides tissue and muscle-building aminos.

Guaranteed . . . money back if not satisfied. Order a full-month's supply of TM Super Protein Today!

As near as has been determined the mechanics of sexual response are these: the nerve ends receive stimulation which excite sexual feelings; they immediately send a message to the sex center in the brain which acknowledges the sexual nature of the response and sends a message down to the erection center in the spine. The purpose is to prepare the male for the sex act by producing an erection.

Again, a male may be sexually excited without having any sort of surface contact whatsoever. This occurs when the eye, as one example, receives an image which is associated with erotic feelings such as nude photos, a girl in a tight dress, etc. Once again the brain passes on a sex message to the erection center in the spine and the male is aroused.

From this we can see that the sex urge, while ever present in the male, is under control of the brain during conscious moments since it is the brain which receives and directs the sexual response. By conjuring up erotic images, by dwelling on sex and being generally preoccupied with the subject, the sex urge can get completely out of hand. Young bodybuilders who make discipline a part of their lives should find no difficulty in controlling such feelings. Giving in to the sex urge is a weakness. Nature has given it to all males—very strong in some, less in others—but she has also given us the means to control it and handle it wisely. And here is where she separates the men from the boys: the mark of the man is not so much in his virility as in his ability to make his sex urge his servant, not be one to it.

SILVER JUBILEE BARBELL SET!

the finest bodybuilding outfit ever designed

HERE'S QUALITY YOU CAN'T BEAT!

Compare TM's SILVER JUBILEE with any other set and you won't be able to match these features . . .

1. Each SILVER JUBILEE barbell plate is guaranteed for life against breakage or chipping! Plates of other makes are very often made with inferior metal and because of this are liable to break or chip when dropped accidentally. But with SILVER JUBILEE plates, a special manufacturing process insures giving them the highest quality possible. A higher percentage of steel is used, giving them greater tensile strength or "hardness."

2. You save from 25% to 40% over what you would pay for a comparable set anywhere else. You get TM's SILVER JUBILEE barbells at bargain rates!

3. It is the most beautiful set ever designed. The plates come in shining silver enamel and the bars, handles and collars come in bright blue enamel. It's a "knock-out"! Just looking at it will make you want to start training at once!
